

GLEEFUL 2018 Call for Papers

<https://sites.google.com/site/gleeful2018/>

The q Undergraduate Association for Linguistics at Michigan State University (qUALMS) is pleased to announce the eighth annual Great Lakes Expo for Experimental and Formal Undergraduate Linguistics (GLEEFUL). GLEEFUL aims to bring together undergraduate linguists from across the continent to present high quality, original research to their peers in order to gain experience and a greater appreciation for the many ways to study linguistics and language-related fields.

Additionally, qUALMS is pleased to announce the continuation of our workshop series for GLEEFUL. These workshops are aimed at undergraduates looking to improve their skill set by exposing them to current techniques and ways to approach linguistic problems.

April 21-22, 2018 in East Lansing, Michigan.

Keynote Speaker:

Professor Ian Roberts

University of Cambridge

Workshops

Will Styler

University of Michigan

Using machine learning to study human language

Alan Munn

Michigan State University

LaTeX for Linguists

We invite 1 page abstracts (500 words) for 10-15 minute presentations or posters from any area of linguistics.

Abstract submission and registration will all be done electronically through our website

<https://sites.google.com/site/gleeful2018/> and email gleeful.2018@gmail.com

Deadline for submission of abstract: Friday February 23, 2018

Abstracts will be reviewed, and participants will be notified around mid-March.

For further information, you can send an email to gleeful.2018@gmail.com , or check out the GLEEFUL website. You can also follow @msu_qualms or like us on Facebook for updates, reminders, and more.

Thank you!

Bobby Felster

GLEEFUL Chair, qUALMS

Rachel Stacey

President, qUALMS